

STUDENTS RIOT

At St. Petersburg, Celebrating Anniversary of the Death of Political Prisoner.

THEY INVADE THE CATHEDRAL

Where They Provoke a Fight With the Congregation Present.

THE COSSACKS USED WHIPS

St. Petersburg, March 18.—The students organized today what was intended to be an imposing demonstration in front of the cathedral of Our Lady of Kazan, the occasion being the anniversary of the death of Victorov, the girl who committed suicide some years ago in the dungeon of a political prison in the fortress of St. Peter and St. Paul in order to escape infamous persecutions.

Immense crowds assembled on Nevsky Prospekt, the principal street of the city, and the adjacent thoroughfares. Military in even greater numbers occupied the district and closed the entrances to all the houses and shops, patrolled the streets, and after time cleared the pavement, making many arrests, including teachers and pupils of the higher grade girls' school. Several of these young women resisted arrest.

A demonstration was held, but owing to the presence of the troops, it was rather a mild affair, although for a time serious consequences seemed likely to follow the locality of the Cossacks in driving back the people with whips.

A number of the students who recently protested against the excommunication of Count Tolstoy, assembled inside the cathedral, and began shouting, howling, and singing, while the Cossacks, brandishing whips, the school elements were being prepared for the occasion. Thereupon the congregation began to threaten the demonstrators outside, and a general fight ensued.

One of the cathedral basemen was seized by the students who used it as a spring outside the cathedral, where he was held for some time. The crowd consisting of many persons as "Long live liberty and free government!" "Down with the Czar!" "Down with rotten officials!" Finally the students unfurled the red flag and an attempt by the police to seize it was the signal for general fight.

London, March 18.—Special dispatches from St. Petersburg describe the fighting between the students and Cossacks. The latter charged the mob at a gallop and the people replied with volleys of stones. A Cossack officer who was struck on the head by an iron bolt was unhurt. The Cossacks being that they leader had fallen, charged and engaged the mob hand to hand. Many of the students were injured seriously, and many of whom were injured seriously, and many of whom were injured seriously, and many of whom were injured seriously.

The light lasted for an hour and the disorders until evening. From 100 to 200 students were driven by the police and Cossacks into surrounding yards where they were detained for examination by the minister of justice.

Many houses were set on fire by the whips of the Cossacks. Old women were crushed almost to death. A child was killed and it is reported that there were other fatalities, although it is impossible to confirm the rumor. Further disorders are expected tomorrow.

ENORMOUS SUM

Asked by England for An Increase in the Navy.

WANT NINE MILLION POUNDS

The Largest Sum Ever Demanded in History of Government.

SECRETARY OF ADMIRALTY

Explains Country Would Prepare for War—Big Lot of Ships.

London, March 18.—In the house of commons today Hugh Oakeley Arnold-Forster, parliamentary secretary to the admiralty, explained the naval proposals of the government. Their object he said was to maintain the navy in a condition to carry on a successful war about the year 1910. It was proposed to build 164, 375 men available to man the fleet, of whom 118,000 should be on the active list, 28,000 on the royal naval reserve list, and 7000 on the royal fleet reserve list.

The government, he went on to explain, would ask for 20,000,000 for construction, the largest sum ever appropriated out of which 33 new vessels would be started. He proceeded to analyze the estimates, Arnold-Forster alluded particularly to the construction of the Belsham boiler. He declared that, even with the delays in pending construction, England held pre-eminence in rapidity of ship building.

"The admiralty holds no exaggerated notions as to the value of submarine boats," he remarked, "but we have cultivated a great deal of information which it is proposed to use to the full value."

Arnold-Forster announced that the new powder under consideration was expected to be equal to the Cordite and would be less destructive to the tubes of the guns. He said that sixteen warships armed with maulerons had been removed from the battle line.

BURIAL OF GEN. HARRISON.

Simple Services Marked Closing Scene at Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 18.—The body of Gen. Benjamin Harrison has been placed in the grave. Yesterday afternoon with simple but impressive ceremonies it was laid in the family lot in Crown Hill cemetery, where rests the remains of the first Mrs. Harrison.

Close by the grave were the members of his family, President McKinley and other visitors. The funeral services were held in the morning at 10 o'clock. It is doubtful if any public man, at least in this generation was buried in this resting place among so many illustrious forefathers.

The services at the church and grave were simple in the extreme, and in most respects the funeral was a quiet affair. The procession to the grave was a simple one. The remains were taken to the First Presbyterian church where the first service was held. There were brief exercises for the members of the family, and more than 100 people were present. Mrs. Harrison did not appear but remained in her room until it was time to leave for the church.

The procession left the house at 2 o'clock. The doors were thrown wide open and the honorary pall bearers came down the walk leading to the street. After them came the active pall bearers bearing the casket.

Behind the casket came Mrs. Harrison, with her brother, Lieutenant Commander Parker of the navy, and little Elizabeth Harrison. Then came Secretary Tibbetts, Mrs. Tibbetts and Mr. and Mrs. McKee, Russell Harrison and after Mrs. Harrison, then the other relatives of the family came. Directly after the members of the family came President McKinley and Gov. Dabbs, and following them the friends of the family.

The party left the church in the same order in which it entered. For the most part those who attended the church were very brief. The Rev. Mr. Nichols read the short committal and burial service and the Rev. Mr. Hanes followed with a prayer.

HE'S UNDER BOND

Worthy Catobias Denies That He Committed Crime of Burglary.

HE WAS JUST REACHING IN

Jason Davidson, Charged With Theft, Is Discharged—Blakeman Could Not Forget It—Wealthy Jags.

THE WIFE CHARGES AN ASSAULT

Worthy Catobias, a farm hand who was arrested on the charge of burglary has a small charge of escaping punishment on that charge but the chance is no longer there as a man's arm. His defense is peculiar.

He is charged with burglary but his real offense is that he is suspected of stealing a watch from Louis Gray, a farmer residing near Elvin.

Catobias was arraigned before Justice Smith yesterday and waived examination. He was placed under bonds of $500 for his appearance in the circuit court, but as he could not give the bond he was taken to jail.

The prisoner denied that he burglarized the house, and it now appears that he simply stuck his hand through the window.

WILLIE BE SLEPT.

Jason Davidson, who was charged with stealing $7 was discharged by Justice Smith on the recommendation of the states attorney who withdrew the complaint against the prisoner.

Davidson was charged by Ben Nelson with stealing $7 from him while he slept. A few nights ago Davidson gave a dance at his house and Nelson was among the guests.

During the evening Nelson went to sleep. It is said from the effects of liquor he had drunk and remained in the house until after the rest of the guests had departed.

On awakening he said that he missed the money he had in his pocket and charged that Davidson had robbed him while he slept.

The states attorney issued the warrant for him and then after investigating the case came to the conclusion that there was nothing in it that warranted the prosecution of Davidson as it was not positive that Nelson had any money when he went to sleep.

AN OLD CASE.

Irving Shindrick was arraigned before Justice Smith yesterday for pay for an old arrest. It was several months ago that Shindrick smashed a man named Mike Blakeman and Mike could not forget it and finally had Shindrick arrested. He pleaded guilty to the charge and paid a fine of $5 and costs.

SHR LOOKED IT.

Mrs. Mattie Ruloff appeared before Justice Smith yesterday and swore out a warrant for the arrest of her husband, Charles Ruloff, charging him with beating her.

She submitted her face as evidence that she once had beaten her and the evidence was so conclusive that she had been kicked by a mule or that some one had struck her that the court did not hesitate to issue the warrant. The paper was posted in the hands of Constable Lloyd who arrested Ruloff and a hearing of the case was set for 9 o'clock Saturday morning at the office of Justice Smith.

Reich is a saloonkeeper on North Oaklawn street. They had a misunderstanding during the day and the husband had undertaken in a rough way to demonstrate that he was master of the situation.

WEALTHY JAGS.

There seems to have been an influx of well-to-do jags to this city within the past few days. Yesterday a man giving the name of Curtis was arraigned before Justice Smith on the charge of being drunk.

He admitted that he had been under the influence of the night before and without a murmur paid the fine of $5 and costs which was assessed against him. Curtis was picked up by the police in a helpless condition on the street and when searched at police headquarters a roll of bills amounting to $38 was found in his pocket. He thanked the police for taking care of him and his roll.

DALEY DISMISSED.

The case against Harry Daley was dismissed by Justice Hane yesterday on account of the technical error in the warrant which did not specify how much damage the defendant had done. He was charged with throwing stones at the section house of the Vandalla railroad.

THE WOODMEN.

Their National Convention Will Be Held in St. Paul in June.

The members of the Woodmen in this city are already discussing the question of their national convention to be held in St. Paul during the month of June. The opening session is on the 11th. The last convention was held in Kansas City in 1890. This convention was attended by 67,000 delegates and from that it is reasonable that there will be at least 100,000 in St. Paul, which is considered a much better summer convention city than the western town.

The big attendance is anticipated for the reason that the bulk of the order is distributed through adjacent states.

The encampment of Woodmen, Forester team will prove one of the most interesting features of the national convention week. These Foresters are uniformed degree teams of the 3000 local Woodmen camps.

Gen. J. N. Reese, one of the Woodmen board of directors and adjutant general of the state of Illinois has perfected a battalion organization for the Foresters and at St. Paul they will go into camp just the same as soldiers. The state of Minnesota has loaned its tents for this purpose and it is expected that not less than 7000 Foresters will be in camp. Gen. Reese's staff met at the head office of the society at Rock Island, Ill., March 12 to perfect plans.

TRoubles OF OTHER TOWNS

Jacksoville Council and Library Board Are in a Slight Mix—Talk at Lincoln.

There is a slight divergence of opinion between the city council and library board of Jacksonville, showing that Decatur is not the only town where citizens fail to unite in the selection of a site.

The subject of a location at Jacksonville and the powers of the board and the council are attracting a great deal of attention. Thursday night the board asked the council to appropriate $10,500 for the purchase of a site and for the expense of fixtures for the building. This the council has refused to do.

The members of the legislative branch of the city insist that the board shall designate the site it is needed for purchase. The aldermen recognize the fact that the board has the right to select the site but also recognize the fact that the council pays the bills and consequently should have something to say about the matter. A resolution was passed to the effect that the council would pay $5000 for a lot as soon as the board would name a choice.

LIBRARY SITES AT LINCOLN.

The new library will certainly be located on the land given for the purpose. It is very kind of the board of supervisors to offer the north park, but it is not acceptable in a leased form.

Mr. Carnegie's conversation with the mayor was to the effect that a permanent site had to be provided, and the liberality of Miss Nash touched him and, it is believed, moved him to consider Lincoln favorably.

The price asked for George W. Reed's property is raised by private subscription additional ground would, to be sure, be much better than the two lots originally donated. There is no one discussing other sites. Miss Nash gave more than Carnegie or the city of Lincoln. She gave all she had. Her memory deserves a tribute. Let it be paid by using the property she gave Lincoln as a library site.—Lincoln Courier.

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Niantic is the Last One to Report—Collections Continue Good.

Of all of the townships outside of Decatur Niantic is the only one that has not reported on the tax collections. Decatur is always the last of all and it is not expected that the collector will be able to make his report for a week or two after he has quit the actual work of collecting. The reports submitted to County Treasurer Miller on Friday follow:

Blue Mound—Frank Brown. Overhead, $3,452.76. Delinquent, 245.76. Collected, 8,200.01. Commissions, 364.18. Paid treasurer, 8,644.83.

Whitewater—E. E. Struge. Overhead, $9,472.88. Delinquent, 307.44. Collected, 8,204.89. Commissions, 134.10. Paid treasurer, 8,649.70.

Pleasant View—O. T. Crow. Overhead, $13,887.20. Delinquent, 140.83. Collected, 10,016.87. Commissions, 218.83. Paid treasurer, 10,696.54.

Macon—Harvey Medlar. Overhead, $12,000.00. Delinquent, 1,526.82. Collected, 10,728.37. Commissions, 214.55. Paid treasurer, 10,810.08.

COL. CONZELMAN'S COSTUME

Placed on Exhibition at Pekin for Benefit of Benighted.

Col. Conzelman of Pekin, a member of Governor Taylor's staff, is proud as a peacock of his new harness. He is a public spirited citizen, too. His fellow townsmen have had no opportunity to see the colonel in his new tuggery and they don't know except by hearsay of the glories of gold lace, blue cloth and brass buttons that swathe the colonel's frame when he is on dress parade.

But the colonel is doing his share to help him out. Too busy to give a dress rehearsal he has put his uniform on exhibition in a store window where the benighted dwellers of Pekin stand with open eyes and open mouths spellbound by the dazzling display. Business has been suspended and the papers announce "that competent judges say that the uniform is worth the price that was paid for it."

From this it is inferred that there had been a lingering suspicion in the mind of the colonel that he had been up against a confidence game.

Deaths of Presidents.

It is interesting to note that pneumonia, the disease with which former President Harrison was stricken, brought about the death of the first president of this republic, Washington succumbing to that ailment on Dec. 14, 1799.

Of the other presidents, four—John Adams, Madison, Monroe and William—died of debility; two—Jefferson and Polk, succumbed to chronic diarrhoea; two—John Quincy Adams and Andrew Johnson—died of paralysis.

Rheumatic gout carried off Buchanan, consumption caused the death of Andrew Jackson, Harrison, Tyler and Taylor died of bilious troubles, and Van Buren of catarrh of the stomach. Grant died of inflammation of the stomach, Grant of cancer and Arthur of Bright's disease.

Two died at the hands of assassins—Lincoln and Garfield.

One Hundred Today.

Lincoln has three citizens of remarkable old age who observe anniversaries this week. Robert Gilchrist is 83, Mrs. Mary J. Evans is 80, and if David Mitchell lives until today he will have reached his 100th year.

Mr. Mitchell lives on a farm near that city and has been a resident of Logan county for 35 years. He is a native of Ireland and came to the United States in 1840. Eight of his ten children are living. His wife died many years ago. Mr. Mitchell is still in extremely good health, considering his age, and will heartily enjoy the celebration to be given in his honor, Saturday.

THOUSANDS VIEW THE BODY

Military Display Made at Indianapolis on Saturday.

Indianapolis, March 18.—Beneath the canopy of black placed in the rotunda of the capital building, the casket covered with silver folds of stars and stripes, surrounded by thousands of blossoms over all of which waving the great little flag that flew from the warship Indiana during the naval battle of Santiago, the body of ex-President Harrison lay in state nine hours.

INDIANA'S TRIBUTE.

It was Indiana's day with her dead and most touching was the esteem and honor in which Harrison was held by his fellow citizens revealed. In front of Harrison's home, along the streets through which the remains were carried on their way to and from the state house, in lines that stretched at times half a mile from the doors of the capital building, men, women and children stood for hours waiting the opportunity to pay their tribute of respect to the dead. It was an immense throng, but one more easy to handle, or rather one that required less handling, never gathered anywhere. Not a single objectionable feature marred the day. The weather was more perfect than could have been desired—a trifle cool in the early part of the day and it grew warmer later and was most pleasant throughout.

A dense throng gathered around the Harrison home on Delaware street, hours before the parade which formed at the state house, arrived. Down Delaware street, much further than the eye could reach the crowd packed the sidewalks to the doors of the residences along the sidewalks. For most part it was made up of women and children, although a considerable proportion consisted of men; many in the lower walks of life who stopped work for the day or long enough to show respect by standing with uncovered heads while the body of the honored dead passed on its way to the state house.

Shortly before the undertaker completed arrangements for the removal of the casket Mrs. Harrison, with little Elizabeth, both attired in deep mourning, came into the apartment to view the face of husband and father. Mrs. Harrison was composed but showed plainly traces of deep sorrow through which she has gone. Mrs. Harrison remained only a few minutes and then retired to her apartments. After she left the room and just before the casket was taken away Russell B. Harrison and his wife, with Mr. and Mrs. McKee, entered the room, looked again at the face of the dead.

HIS OLD COMMANDER.

Early in the morning Mrs. Harrison entered the room where her husband lay, to be alone with him for probably the last time. As she stood in the darkened chamber, the door of the room opened noiselessly and an old soldier, bent with age, entering in the hush of the morning, came slowly in. He did not see Mrs. Harrison and turned over the dead face while tears came into his eyes. "Colonel," he said softly, as he touched the white hand on the general's breast, "Colonel,"

Mrs. Harrison came to where he was standing and said: "I am Mrs. Harrison." "You will excuse me," the old man said, "for intruding on your grief, but I wanted to see my old commander once more—just once more. I tried very hard to come to Indianapolis to see him when he was alive but never could. When I heard he was dead I wanted to give the old salute for the last time," and, raising his hand to the forehead in true military fashion, the old man turned away and passed from the room. This incident nearly overpowered Mrs. Harrison and it was some time before she regained composure.

A quarter to twelve General McKee ordered 2500 Infantrymen, standing at attention on both sides of the street, to present arms, and in the reverential hush which ensued the casket was carried from the house and placed in the front funeral car. Six sergeants with two sergeants from the Indianapolis Light Infantry carried the casket. Admiral George Brown, representing the army, General Lew Wallace,

FUNERAL TODAY.

In marked contrast to the military and other display of today, by which the state of Indiana paid a last tribute of honor to General Harrison, will be the funeral services tomorrow afternoon at the First Presbyterian church. The altar will be simple, dignified and unostentatious. The church has been richly, but simply decorated with drapings of black, white and the American flag. The entrance has been draped in black.

Twining to the limited capacity of the church, which will host only about 1000, and because of the great demand for seats, the committee on arrangements found it necessary to announce that admission to the church will be to friends of the family by card.

The services tomorrow are intended only for friends and relatives of General Harrison and this decision is deemed advisable in order to guarantee that church will be over-run with persons who have no claim of entrance.

Tickets will be issued to individuals and not to societies or organizations that may wish to attend in a body.

Friends and relatives who compose the funeral party will gather at the Harrison home at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. A few minutes later the hearse, followed by carriages bearing the members of the party, will move south on Delaware to Massachusetts avenue, and thence to Pennsylvania avenue. The services will be conducted by Rev. M. L. Haines, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, assisted by Rev. Dr. Samuel J. Nicolai, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church of St. Louis.

At the conclusion of the service the funeral party will leave the church going directly to Crown Hill cemetery.

The service at the cemetery will be exceedingly simple and brief. Tomorrow at sunrise the United States national will fire a salute of twelve guns at one-half hour intervals throughout the day the guns will be fired. At sunset a salute of 45 guns will be fired.

President McKinley will be entertained quietly by Governor and Mrs. W. T. Durbine tomorrow. The governor will, with the reception committee, meet the president at the station at 6:40 tomorrow when the train to which the president's arrival will be attached is scheduled to arrive.

FAMILY VISIT CAPITOL.

About 5 o'clock Mrs. Harrison accompanied by her brother, Lieutenant Commander Parker of the United States navy, was driven up to the east entrance of the state house. They were escorted to the governor's office, and an order was given to close the doors, and clear the house. As soon as this was done Mrs. Harrison, escorted by Gov. Durbine briefly viewed the casket. She did not remain in the building more than five minutes. Previous to her visit, Colonel and Mrs. Russell Harrison, Master William Henry Harrison, Major and Mrs. J. R. McKee and Benjamin Harrison McKee had called.

Mhanghai, March 18.—The North China Gazette publishes an interview with Minister Conger at Peking, in which he is quoted as saying: "I will not venture to say how far Russia is prepared to go. The Manchurian treaty is still unratified, but if it is ratified it will undoubtedly affect the peace negotiations. Only the Germans and the French are now engaged in the positive negotiations. I believe it is impossible for the emperor to return to Peking until the allies are withdrawn and the Chinese officials restored to power, and free from risk of interference by the foreign troops."

"The emperor dowager's return," added Conger, "depends on the capacity in which she came back. The emperor is free to bring her. The ministers recognize her responsibility in regard to the outbreak but thought it due to the bad advice given by Prince Tuan and General Siang."

About 5 o'clock Mrs. Harrison accompanied by her brother, Lieutenant Commander Parker of the United States navy, was driven up to the east entrance of the state house. They were escorted to the governor's office, and an order was given to close the doors, and clear the house. As soon as this was done Mrs. Harrison, escorted by Gov. Durbine briefly viewed the casket. She did not remain in the building more than five minutes. Previous to her visit, Colonel and Mrs. Russell Harrison, Master William Henry Harrison, Major and Mrs. J. R. McKee and Benjamin Harrison McKee had called.

ILL ADVICE

Excuses the Action of the Chinese Emperor Dowager.

Mhanghai, March 18.—The North China Gazette publishes an interview with Minister Conger at Peking, in which he is quoted as saying: "I will not venture to say how far Russia is prepared to go. The Manchurian treaty is still unratified, but if it is ratified it will undoubtedly affect the peace negotiations. Only the Germans and the French are now engaged in the positive negotiations. I believe it is impossible for the emperor to return to Peking until the allies are withdrawn and the Chinese officials restored to power, and free from risk of interference by the foreign troops."

"The emperor dowager's return," added Conger, "depends on the capacity in which she came back. The emperor is free to bring her. The ministers recognize her responsibility in regard to the outbreak but thought it due to the bad advice given by Prince Tuan and General Siang."

BONI'S AIM IS TRUE

Brings Down De Rodays at First Shot in Saturday's Duel.

THE EDITOR'S AIM WAS BAD

Although He Fired First He Missed the Little Count.

DERODAYS' WOUND IS SLIGHT

It is Expected He Will Be About in Ten Days.

Paris, March 18.—In the duel fought today between Count Boni de Castellane and M. De Rodays, the latter was wounded in the thigh.

La Liberté says De Rodays was hit in the right thigh at the first exchange of shots; Castellane was not injured. The duel was then stopped.

The meeting occurred at 3 this afternoon in the Parc des Princes, where many cycling events occurred last summer. Count de Dion directed the duel. De Rodays is not seriously injured.

Paris, March 18.—The determination to exclude witnesses from the duel was well kept. The only witnesses and the necessary attendants were spectators of the meeting so zealously were secrecy maintained in regard to the meeting place. M. De Rodays and his seconds were the first to reach the Parc des Princes, though they were almost immediately followed by the adversaries' carriages, which were two in number. One contained Count Boni de Castellane, Duke of De Dion, and the other was the Marquis de Castellane, the count's father, and M. Jullivet, Count de Dion, as director of the duel, carried the pistols, which were carefully examined.

On each side the preliminaries were soon completed.

Count De Dion having measured off twenty-five paces, requested M. De Rodays and Count Boni to take their allotted places. Both principals were dressed in black frock coats.

The usual words of warning and explanation were given. Count De Dion counted three, then said, "Fire."

Scarcely had the word been uttered than M. De Rodays was seen to totter and exclaimed: "I am wounded in the thigh."

Witnesses hastened to his side and were obliged to carry him to one of the dressing rooms, where the doctor gave him immediate care.

Count Boni, after inquiring into the character of the wound, left the spot, accompanied by the witnesses.

Shortly afterward M. De Rodays was taken to his residence in a carriage.

The doctor said M. De Rodays' wound was not of a disfiguring nature.

Later it was announced that, though the bullet has not yet been extracted, M. De Rodays will be well in ten days. Count Boni was not touched.

ABSOLUTELY CORRECT.

The duel was carried out with the utmost correctness every step of the proceedings was marked by absolute calmness and courtesy on both sides, which, if anything, enhanced its dramatic effect.

Count Boni, and M. De Rodays divested themselves of their overcoats and took their positions at either extremity of the square marked off. Both turned up the colors of their frock coats in order to conceal the white lines, which offered a mark.

Count Castellane's aim figure stood out clear on the green lawn, but M. De Rodays from the ground was distinct.

A few moments of deep silence followed. Then, "Are you ready?" was asked by Count de Dion. "Yes," came the reply from both. Another brief silence and then the word "fire," rang out sharply, followed by the words, "one, two and three," at regular intervals. Between the words, "one" and "two" a report was heard and smoke issued from the muzzle of M. De Rodays' weapon.

"Two" had just sounded when Count Boni's pistol spoke and immediately De Rodays clapped his hand to his right thigh, and exclaimed, "I am wounded." He was carried to the side of the track, where the surgeons probed and dressed the wound.

Count Boni approached the wounded man and asked: "M. De Rodays, are you in pain?"

"Not too much," was the reply.

Count Boni then stretched out his hand, which M. De Rodays accepted.

Count Boni and his party then drove home. M. De Rodays was removed to his residence. The surgeon hopes to extract the bullet in two or three days. There is an entire absence of fever, although the wounded man's suffering is intense, which leads to the belief that he will be well again in a week.

NO COLOR LINE

Should Be Drawn in Dealing With Men of This Kind.

Pontiac, Ill., March 18.—The officers tonight landed a nuptial in jail here despite the attempts of a determined mob of 500 enraged citizens to string him up. The jail was surrounded by an angry mob and it is not unlikely that an attempt will be made to lynch the prisoner before morning.

Matilda Murr, the 13-year-old daughter of a wealthy farmer living near Fairbury, was originally assaulted on a public highway today by a young man, some unknown, a hostler for J. E. Ellis, of Fairbury. The man succeeded in his purpose but the girl's father heard her cries and pursued the assailant, aided by dozens of farmers. Near Lexington, 15 miles distant, the head boarded a freight train but was arrested by a constable at Lexington and finally lodged in jail this evening. The settlement is intense, and it is thought the prisoner will be summarily dealt with.

RETAIL CLERKS

Meet and Determine to Effect an Organization.

About fifty persons were present at the meeting of the retail clerks in the circuit court room Monday night. The meeting was addressed by Miss Emma Langhorne of Chicago, general organizer for the Retail Clerks International Protective Association. It was decided to form a local association and a temporary organization was effected and the following officers elected: President, A. B. Lounsbury; secretary, Ed. Smith; treasurer, J. E. Henshaw. The president appointed Fletcher Lawrence, E. Henshaw and Will Wyrse a committee to solicit members.

DECLARATION OF PRINCIPLES.

We declare it the duty of Retail Clerks to use their influence to secure the amelioration of the retail clerks generally and to accomplish this we believe that an international organization should exist, whereby all organized clerks may be represented and their interests be improved. We pledge ourselves to assist each other in securing a fair compensation for services rendered.

We especially denounce the system of slavery perpetrated upon our fellow clerks by being compelled to labor fourteen and sixteen hours daily, to dedicate the masses to "daylight" purchasing shall be our chief aim.

We declare our influence with the law making power to secure the enactment of laws beneficial to our interests, and those of the wage workers in general.

We demand the use of comfortable seats behind sales counters by all firms employing lady clerks, and we demand equal pay for equal work, regardless of sex.

We denounce the discrimination of Sunday by unscrupulous employers compelling clerks to work on that day.

It shall be the duty of the members of very local union, individually and collectively, to do all in their power to reform the capitalist labor system of their particular states.

We declare it our duty to abolish child labor in the retail stores and workshops. To provide a benefit fund for sick, aged, and indigent members, to bury the dead and to provide such other protection as we may be able to give our members.

The next meeting will be held Monday, March 25, in the circuit court room.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 18.—The testament of General Harrison's family, this afternoon, his last will and testament was opened and read by W. B. H. Miller, in whose hands the instrument was placed soon after its execution in 1898. Nothing could be learned tonight regarding the contents of the will or the provisions for the distribution of the property, but it was a matter of report that the General had made a liberal provision for his wife, Harrison, and his little daughter, and that there could be no reasonable ground for future dispute of the will in the courts.

Big Fire in Small Town.

The little town of Blomberg, Mo., 75 miles from St. Louis on the Iron Mountain railroad, was almost wiped out of existence by fire today. The leading business houses and many residences were burned. Loss estimated at $100,000.

Inhabitants of the place were without means of fighting the flames, and were compelled to stand by helplessly and witness the destruction of their property.

Gorman has succeeded in getting his disfranchisement scheme through the Maryland legislature. The voters of that state should now proceed to show Gorman that there is still enough of liberty left in the state to defeat him.

Since the democratic party has gone into the business of disfranchising American citizens in the south there is nothing left but to apply the 14th amendment to the constitution limiting the representation of that section in congress and the electoral college. Congress cannot escape this responsibility.

JOHN FOSTER.

John Foster, who lives three and one-half miles south of Lovington, died very suddenly Sunday morning at 8:30 of heart trouble. Mr. Foster had been to Sullivan on Saturday in good health. He returned home in the evening. He got up as usual Sunday morning and showed no signs of illness, at his breakfast and after a talk with his wife he went to read some papers. While he was down the road he met Nick Freeman, a neighbor and talked with him. When the horse reached the gate he called to his wife to open it which she promptly did, letting the horse into the barn lot, then looked around for her husband, who she did not see, but upon looking more closely saw him lying in the road. She ran to him immediately and his breath ceased after she reached him.

He was 55 years old, leaves a wife, three sons, Marcus, of Joplin, Mo.; Ollie and Nicholas, of this county; a daughter, Mrs. Ross Miller, of Sullivan, and two brothers, Sam Foster of Decatur, and J. ## WHY HE RESIGNED.

Alderman Shilling Gives His Reason for That Action.

Alderman Charles V. Shilling has resigned as a member from the First ward to take effect with the beginning of the city's new fiscal year. He gives his reason as follows: "If I should be successful in my effort to get the republican nomination for mayor, I would be compelled to resign. The republican primaries have been fixed at such a late date that I should wait until that time before taking this step and then, if nominated, I would necessitate the holding of a special election to fill the vacancy. I may not be nominated but I do not care to take chances on putting the city to the expense of holding a special election."
